May we choose to self-love rather than self-loathe. May we choose to create rather than criticise. May we choose to flow rather than fight. May we give our all rather than give up.

Quote for the week

*"Make friends who
force you to level
up."*

THE COMMUNION OF SAINTS

In the summer of 1948, as Sister Teresa wandered the streets of Kolkata, the stifling heat tempted her to return to the convent. The convent was nice and cool. But then she spotted a woman lying in the road. The woman was half-eaten by rats and ants. She looked almost dead. People passed by on either side, not taking notice. Yet the small Albanian nun walked over and carefully lifted the woman, cradling her like a precious work of art. The nun carried her to a nearby hospital and insisted they look after her. Sr. Teresa refused to leave until they gave the woman a bed.

"If I look at the mass of people, I will never act. If I look at one person, I will." It's easy to disregard her witness, thinking we could never do what she did. Yet, her example shows us that we can recognize and promote dignity in our ordinary, every day lives. One small gesture at a time. All it takes is for us to notice someone near us who is struggling. Go ahead, you can do this. :)

If you need support,
there are many people
@ Assumption who care:
-Teachers
-Ms. Rerecich
-Guidance Counselors
-Ms. Misener, CYC
-Ms. Thomas
-Mr. Chliszczyk
-Mr. McDougall

Loving God, it's getting more and more difficult for me to stay focused on school when the weather is so nice! Help me focus and follow through with my responsibilities and chores. Amen.
