GOOD NEWS STORIES

WOMAN HELPED 100 SENIORS RE-HOME THEIR PETS BEFORE PASSING AWAY, BRINGING 'PEACE OF MIND'

A 28-year-old who helps the elderly to re-home their pets before passing away has celebrated her 100th adoption.

Angela Rafuse was inspired to create her charity after her 85-year-old grandfather died, leaving his cat, Mackenzie, without a home.

None of Angela's relatives had capacity to take on the responsibility, so she decided to take in the calico cat herself.

After a bad break up, Angela moved home to live with her parents in Halifax, Nova Scotia, and began sharing the basement with the feline. "I was processing the grief and heartbreak of a breakup and losing my grandfather, but the only options left were taking her to a shelter or me adopting her. I had to take her."

Although Mackenzie became very grumpy and hissed a lot, Angela soon realized the cat was just scared. It eventually warmed to her new owner after lots of love and attention, inspiring the Canadian woman to start a new venture in 2021.

Angela's nonprofit, 'My Grandfather's Cat', facilitates adoptions of dogs and cats belonging to seniors who are either terminally ill or wishing to enter a retirement home.

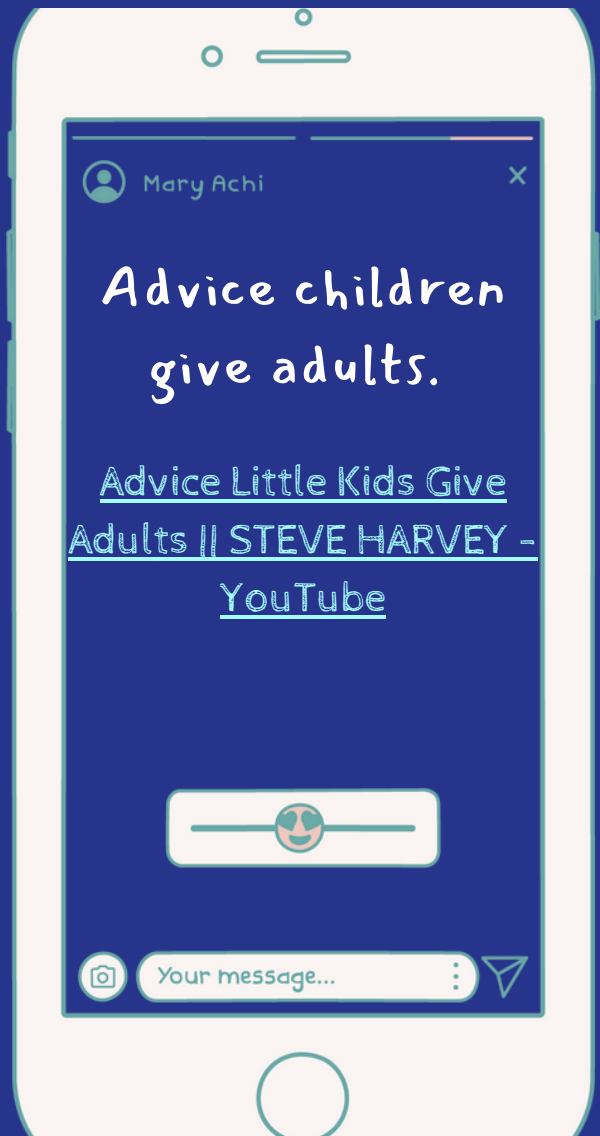

While Angela and the tabby lived in her parent's basement for 18 months, she started posting videos on TikTok. Soon the duo grew a following of 656,000 people—and many commented about how their grandparent's pets had to go into shelters after they passed.

"It was like a divine intervention. I knew this is what I should do." Most seniors are referred to My Grandfather's Cat by care homes or shelters. They submit an application and the team then writes a profile to post on social media.

They then interview people who might be interested, and find out who is a good fit—and the senior has the opportunity to interview the family, too.

"The senior then picks their pet's second forever home—and the adoptees can stay in touch with the new owner who will share updates."

Prayer

Loving God,
Help me live Lent more meaningfully this year. I'm tired of going through the motions and contributing to the status quo. Please give me the courage and confidence I need to take initiative to show others I care.
Amen.
