 - Globalization
 - Deviance in society
 - The adolescent mind and schools of thought
 - Generational cohorts
 - Behaviour modification

Take this if....

- you want something interactive - between lessons, group projects, surveys, and presentations, it is a diverse course for all learning styles!
- you like discussing and learning about current events and challenges.
- you have or need help developing skills like research and inquiry, thinking critically, APA citation, and data management and graphing.

YOU WILL LOVE....

- leaving with a wider perspective on the society we live in and a better understanding of the way our own society works, what it values, and how we can help create positive change.
- going deeper into the social science discipline and all of the potential career pathways that stem from it (political scientist, criminal justice, social work etc.).
